

State of Kansas + TIPS Contracts

Faster Projects. Fewer Roadblocks. One Trusted Partner.

When your organization is ready to upgrade its fire, security, or communication systems, cooperative contracts make it easier to move forward — no lengthy RFPs or bidding required.

What Are Cooperative Contracts

Cooperative purchasing contracts are pre-negotiated agreements that allow qualified public-sector organizations to buy technology and services directly from approved vendors.

With Tech Electronics, you can use these contracts to streamline projects across:

- Fire & Life Safety
- Security & Access Control
- Audio Visual & Communications
- Monitoring & Managed Services

Two Simple Paths with Tech

State of Kansas Procurement Contracts

Leverage established state contracts to access pre-approved pricing and trusted local service for your next technology upgrade.

The Interlocal Purchasing System (TIPS)

TIPS is a national cooperative purchasing program that gives schools, municipalities, and government entities access to competitively bid technology solutions — saving time and resources.

Why Choose Cooperative Purchasing

Streamline Purchasing

Reduce or remove the need for formal bidding*

Accelerate project timelines

Move from planning to installation faster

Gain cost confidence

Transparent, pre-approved pricing

Work local

Get design, installation, and support from Tech's Kansas City team

Ready to Plan Your 2026 Upgrade?

Modernizing your systems doesn't have to be complicated.

Contact your Tech Electronics rep to schedule a consultation with your local technology specialist.

*Use of cooperative purchasing contracts is subject to organizational procurement policies, awarded contract scope, and political-subdivision eligibility. The purchasing organization is responsible for confirming compliance with applicable procurement requirements.

Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana

1.800.832.4789

techelectronics.com